ADmits POISONING 4 HUSBANDS—Mrs. Nannie Doss, a 49-year-old grandmother, has confessed to police at Tulsa, Oklahoma, that she poisoned four of her five husbands. Mrs. Doss said she put poison in her fourth husband's coffee because he "got on my nerves." Her first husband survives. Mrs. Doss, shown above, sits in Tulsa police station after signing a statement. Supreme Court Rules Hospitals Can't Bar Licensed Physicians

LANSING (AP) — The State Supreme Court held today that tax-supported hospitals may not bar licensed physicians from using their facilities.

It ordered the Gogebic County (Grandview) public hospital to discard rules which had been used to prevent Dr. Samuel G. Albert of Ironwood from sending his patients to that institution and performing surgery there.

Joining in the suit were James C. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Behrendt Jr., whose minor children were refused admission to the hospital until the parents obtained some other doctor than Dr. Albert.

Dr. Albert contended, the court said, that he was required to pay a $25 "observation fee" to older doctors for permission to operate in the hospital. Later, he said, he was barred from the hospital entirely.

He contended the hospital rules created staffs of senior and junior doctors and that junior doctors were forbidden to perform major operations without the supervision of a senior doctor.

The hospital argued that "ill consequences" can result from allowing licensed physicians to practice in a public hospital unless they have been admitted specially to practice in that hospital.

The Supreme Court said that state law permitted only the State Board of Registration in Medicine to suspend a licensed physician's right to practice and that the right of the hospital to adopt rules did not give it the right to control a licensed doctor.

The law "sets forth the absolute right of a patient to be attended by a licensed practitioner of his choice," the court added.

Voiding 10 of the hospital's rules, the court instructed the local Circuit Court to hold a hearing on three other rules challenged by Dr. Albert. These had to do with maintaining complete records of all cases, the records to be kept by the hospital.

The court commented that the law says no licensed practitioner may be allowed to disclose any information he acquires in treating a patient.

Woman Scientist Begins New Chapter In Sheppard Murder

CLEVELAND (AP) — A green bag containing jewelry of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, found in a hedge beside his home, bore no blood stains, a coroner's medical technician testified today.

But on Dr. Sheppard's watch inside, there were human blood stains with the same "M-factor" as the blood of the murdered Marilyn Sheppard, said the witness, Miss Mary Cowan.

No Fingerprints

The bag contained the watch, a signet ring and a key chain belonging to the doctor, but none of them contained fingerprints, she continued.

The state also produced Marilyn's wrist watch, which was found after the murder in Dr. Sheppard's downstairs den, on the floor.

Miss Cowan testified that this watch also bore no fingerprints, but that it was stained with human blood, which also contained the M-factor present in Marilyn's blood.

Canadian Youths Jailed For Gun-Point Car Theft And Kidnapping Of Aged Man

The arrest in Escanaba early today of two young Canadians ended a crime adventure that began Sunday in Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba, and included kidnapping, car theft, armed robbery and breaking and entering.

They are Wesley Joseph Nawolski, 18, and Leslie Wallace Holm, 16, both of Lac du Bonnet, Canada.

Their kidnap victim for 10 hours, Earl Murley, 77, of Morgan Manor, Ironwood, is a patient at St. Francis Hospital, where he is receiving treatment for shock. His condition is not serious.

"They Kidnapped Me!"

Escanaba police arrested the two youths at 1:18 a.m. today in the 500 block on N. 23rd St. after a chase at speeds up to 70 miles an hour and the firing of a shot into the fender of the fleeing car.

Police were alerted a few minutes earlier by State Police of Gladstone, who had received a call from William Dupont of Club 41, Pine Ridge, informing them that an old man told him he had been kidnapped.

"They kidnapped me!" Murley told Dupont when he and the two youths stopped at Club 41 for coffee.

Nawolski and Holm ran from Club 41, jumped into Murley's 1954 Plymouth sedan, and drove toward Escanaba.

Pistol Tossed Out

When Escanaba Patrolmen Paul Sullivan and Richard Lundin forced the youths to a halt by firing a bullet through the car's left front fender, they found no gun in the possession of the young men, although police had been warned the youths were armed.

Patrolmen Donald Michelin and Robert Coan arrived within a few minutes in another patrol car and Nawolski and Holm were separated and taken to jail.

The 32 caliber pistol which the youths had stolen at Lac du Bonnet was later found along the highway, where it had been tossed out when police fired on the car.

In statements to Escanaba police, the story of the youths and their crime trail was pieced together.

They left Lac du Bonnet about 11:30 p.m. Sunday in a 1947 Mercury sedan stolen at the Viking Garage. The pistol was also stolen at the same time.

Storm On Way Says Bureau

Heavy snow, accumulating three to six inches, with considerable drifting, is forecast for northern Iowa, southern Minnesota and Northern and central Wisconsin tonight and Wednesday morning with snow spreading into Upper Michigan from the southwest late tonight and continuing Wednesday day, according to a U.S. Weather Bureau bulletin issued about 11 a.m. today.

Just when the storm will hit Escanaba and the extent of its severity is not stated as local reports had up to that time indicated continued mild weather with only a few light flurries in prospect for tomorrow.

The low pressure area was located in eastern Colorado early this morning and was heading due east with Iowa and Illinois expected to bear the brunt of it by tonight.

Temperatures slightly below freezing, but mild compared with surrounding areas and an almost complete absence of snow is prevailing in this area at present.

The high yesterday was 36 degrees and low this morning, 28. It is expected that a 34 degree temperature will be reached by midafternoon. Snowfall in other parts of the Upper Peninsula was, without exception, heavier than here. Regions along Lake Superior got most of it.

To the south, Milwaukee had a low of 23 degrees this morning and Chicago 22.

at Sprague, the youths used the insurance identification papers of the car owner, Gus Wickman of Lac du Bonnet, to get themselves and the car across the border.

At Pistol Point

At Ray, Minn., they broke into a store and took new clothing and other articles, including cigarettes and beer, police said. Their stolen car broke down and they left it 10 miles outside of Ray.

They hitchhiked to Superior, Wis., where at 3 p.m. yesterday they were picked up by Murley, who was on his way home to Ironwood. Arriving at Ironwood, the youths suddenly drew the pistol and forced Murley to continue on out of town and toward Escanaba.

At gun point they forced him to write a personal check for $35, with which they bought food and gasoline, according to the police.

Fatigue And Shock

Shortly after 1 a.m. today they halted at Club 41, a few miles west of Escanaba, for coffee. It was there that Murley, in desperation, blurted out that he was being kidnapped.

After capturing the youths, Escanaba police searched them and recovered Murley's wallet. They also found a number of stolen articles, including clothing, beer and cigarettes.

Murley was taken to the police station where he was questioned briefly and was then examined by a physician, who advised that the aged man go to the hospital for the night. It was then about 3 a.m. and Murley was suffering from fatigue and the shock of his experience.

Police Chief Jack Finn today said Holm and Nawolski will be held in jail here until advised further by the prosecuting attorney and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Funeral services are being held in Phoenix and burial will be there.

CRIME TRAIL ENDS HERE — The arrest in Escanaba early today of two young Canadians ended a crime trail that began Sunday in their home town of Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba. Pictrued in the Escanaba police station are Wesley Kawolski, 18, one of the Lac du Bonnet youths; Patrolman Paul Sullivan; Leslie Holm, 16, Kawolski's companion; and Captain Harold Fimman. Handel's 'Messiah' Is Musical Masterpiece

This year Escanaba and Manistique will join the hundreds of cities throughout the English speaking world in ushering in the Christmas season with the singing of the "Messiah." Handel's great oratorio will be presented here Tuesday, Dec. 7, at 8 p. m. at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium by the Orpheus Choral Club under the sponsorship of the Escanaba Woman's Club.

The Choral Club of 90 voices, directed by Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr., will be accompanied by the Salon String Ensemble. Five soloists will be featured, Alice Hartbarger, contralto, Patricia Ammel Olson and Adelle Van Wieren, sopranos, John S. Elwell, tenor, and Wendell Orr, bass.

"The Messiah" will also be presented by the Manistique Choral Club of 82 voices on Dec. 12 in the Manistique High School auditorium. The Manistique presentation is under the direction of Mrs. James H. Fyvie.

For generations citizens have thrilled to the majestic music of the "Messiah" and have found inspiration and comfort in the promise of its words, "Comfort ye," "And the Glory of the Lord," "For unto us a Child is Born," "Wonderful, Counsellor, the Mighty God," "He was despised," "Lift Up Your Heads," "Hallelujah" and the wonderful faith expressed in "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth."

An Institution

It is over 200 years since George Friedrich Handel completed the score of "Messiah." Today it is an English institution. It has become a part of the Christian religion. To many it is the sublime expression of the Christian belief. It possesses a universality which raises it above all narrowness or sectarianism. It has been described as "the spirit of hope, suffering, faith and brotherhood of the world itself" yet each "can associate ourselves personally, yet unconsciously, with its epic grandeur and the

"Gift To Poor"

There is something both pathetic and ironic that the bankrupt Handel should give his masterpiece for his fellow-sufferers. So it was that "Messiah" was rarely performed for Handel's own benefit. It was his gift to the poor and oppressed of the world. Never has any musical work raised more money for charitable purposes or relieved more suffering both of body and spirit. For many years Handel directed a Messiah concert for the benefit of The Foundling Hospital, his favorite charity, and at his death he willed to it "a fair Copy of the Score and all the Parts of my Oratorio called the Messiah."

The twilight of his life should have been the happiest part of his career. Honored now and respected by all, his music was received with ever increasing acclamation. But in 1751 his eyesight began to fail and he underwent many painful operations to no avail. He died on Good Friday, April 13, the anniversary of the first performance of his immortal "Messiah."

To Lord Kinnoul who once complimented him on providing such fine entertainment, he replied "My Lord, I should be sorry if I only entertained them; I wished to make them better."

Limited Parking In Effect Here Tonight

Beginning at midnight tonight, parking in Escanaba for the next four months will be limited to one-half hour from 2:30 a. m. to 7 a. m.

Public attention was directed to the ordinance today by Police Chief Jack Finn, who said the only exception to the parking order is in the one-half block north and south of Ludington St.

Purpose of the limited parking rule is to keep cars from being parked all night on streets which must be plowed during the winter months.

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Charter

Changes in the Escanaba city charter which are embodied in the proposed new charter to be voted upon by the electorate Dec. 7 were discussed for Escanaba Kiwanis Club members at their regular meeting Monday by Lowell Hebbard, member of the charter revision commission.

Hebbard pointed out that the charter revision represented 18 months of work for the commission, during which suggestions were received from various civic and governmental groups and studies were made of new charters adopted at Sault Ste. Marie and Marquette. The present Escanaba charter is over 30 years old.

Chief among the changes listed by Hebbard were:

Provision for a city primary election to be held in February of even-numbered years.

Increase in the pay of city councilman from $5 to $10 per meeting, with the maximum raised to $400 a year.

Appointment of the city attorney by the city council instead of by the city manager as at present. Other council appointees are clerk, assessor and manager.

A requirement that members of city boards and commissions shall have been residents of the city for at least two years.

A provision for future codification of city ordinances by legal expert.

Elimination of the city assessor from the board of review. The state was taken that the city assessor in his report has already voted on city tax valuations and should not be asked to vote again on the board of review. He would be replaced on the board by the city engineer, recognized as an authority on certain phases of valuations.

Addition of a poverty allowance under special assessments whereby a person unable to pay would have his payment assumed by the city and would give a lien on his property to cover the amount.

Abolition of justice courts, to be replaced by a municipal court. This change is scheduled to take effect in January of 1957 under the new charter proposal. The municipal judge would be elected for a six-year term, and his office would be a part-time job, relieving circuit court of many minor cases. Jurisdiction of the municipal court would extend to $500 in civil matters. To qualify for the municipal judgeship, a candidate would have to be a practicing attorney, admitted to the bar all over again.

Driver Escapes As Car Crashes Into '400' Sunday

MENOMINEE — A car driven by Edward P. Sowinski, 40, of Wausauke was demolished when it skidded into the side of one of the coaches on the southbound C&NW Peninsula "400" at Wallace at 9:30 a. m. Monday. Except for suffering severe shock, Sowinski escaped unhurt.

Deputy Martin Nerat reported Sowinski was driving east on County Road 342 towards Wallace at about 15 miles an hour. When he observed the approaching streamliner, he applied the brakes but his car skidded on the icy road into the side of the train. The impact spun the Sowinski car around and pitched it off the road along the tracks. Sowinski walked from the wrecked car uninjured. The train did not stop, as the crew was apparently unaware of the collision.

Floyd Bushie of Stambaugh announced that a lie detector test at Marquette Wednesday revealed that Ambrose was responsible for the Iron River Country club robbery Sept. 30, and not Eugene Gollakner, 17, also of Caspian.

Court Ruling Provides More Revenue For School Districts

THE decision of the Michigan Supreme Court in the case of the school district No. 9 of Pittsfield Township of Washtenaw County against the Washtenaw Board of Supervisors in which the Court held that school taxes must be assessed on state equalized valuations will have far-reaching effect throughout Michigan, including Delta County.

The Escanaba School District this year will collect taxes on the basis of state valuations but it will be the only school district in the county to realize this benefit this year. The Escanaba School District by formal resolution demanded that state valuations be used for Escanaba school taxes and fortified the demand with rulings from state tax officials. The Escanaba City Council approved the use of state valuations for the collection of school taxes in time to permit the higher assessments to be spread on this year's tax assessment rolls.

Now as a result of the Supreme Court ruling all of the public schools in the county, and elsewhere in Michigan, for that matter, will be entitled to revenue based upon the state assessments which generally are much higher than the county valuations.

It is not unlikely that the county will follow suit and decide to collect county taxes on the basis of the state equalized valuations next year. This is a logical development because the county's need for additional money is equally as great as that of school districts.

The effect of all this, of course, is to sharply bend if not to break the shackles of the 15-mill tax limitation constitutional amendment. Governmental units are finding it impossible to live within the confinements of the tax revenue that can be achieved on a 15-mill tax. Also they are finding it difficult to get property owners to vote an increase in their property taxes.

The sad truth is that another of the major causes for the present predicament is the lack of uniformity in tax assessing districts. Menomonee county, for instance, taxes only about 45 per cent of the state equalized valuations in their county. Delta county taxes about 83 per cent. But that doesn't mean that tax assessing is necessarily good in Delta County. On the contrary, there is as much inequality in assessments within the county as there is in inequalities between counties. And these inequalities may be found also in each individual assessment district, such as within a township or within a city.

No Barking, Please

PRODDED by its humane instincts, the New York Public Library has altered a long standing rule. It has decided that dogs may hereafter be admitted to its sacred precincts. Up to now, they've been parked outside, even on the coldest days.

The library isn't giving the dogs free rein, though. Their masters have to keep them on leash.

Of course the new arrangement will be nicer for the dogs. Maybe the library figures it will be better for their masters, too. Pretty homely setup, reading with the dog at your feet. It wouldn't be surprising to see some of the hounds trotting in with their masters' slippers between their teeth.

Some delicate questions of library decorum may arise. Since signs reading "Silence, no barking, please" are not likely to make much of an impression, what happens when a few canine yips break the august stillness? Will the library throw out just the dog, or the master, too?

Until this thing shakes down a bit, possibly the authorities ought to hold competitions for good dog behavior. The winner, naturally, would be pooh-of-the-month.

All of your friends can solve your problems, but have you noticed how few of them get the right answers?

If a place is homely, there's real truth in the saying "There's no place like home."

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

"Tossing about at 3 o'clock this morning in vain and somewhat desperate quest for sleep, it occurred to me to wonder just where the word 'insomnia' came from," writes a Chicago reader. "Perhaps, if you can manage to make your explanation boring enough, I can memorize it and repeat it again and again through the anguished night in place of the sheep-counting routine—which never worked for me anyway."

Well, sir, in consideration of your sorry plight, we'll pass right over the somewhat sly innuendo of your plea to make the explanation "boring enough." It's not easy, though, for "boring" is what this column strives always to be.

At any rate, the explanation of the origin of "insomnia" is a very simple one, since it comes to us almost unchanged from the Latin "insomnius," meaning sleepless. This, in turn, is made up of the prefix "in," without, and "sonnius," sleep." All clear? Pleasant dreams!

"On a recent broadcast of WHAT'S MY LINE," writes a Westchester County (N.Y.) reader, "Bennet Cerf made rather an ostentatious display of erudition, using not one but two Latin phrases in quick succession. One of them, 'modus vivendi,' I have heard often, but the other was strange to me and I couldn't quite catch it. Did you by any chance hear this show and, if so, can you tell me what the second phrase was?"

Well, it happens that I did hear it and can supply the missing phrase. But first to "modus vivendi," which may not be familiar to all our readers. Pronounced MOH-dus vuh-VEN-dy, it comes unchanged (except for the pronunciation of the last syllable) from Latin and means "manner of living"—especially a temporary arrangement pending final settlement of a dispute.

The second phrase "modus operandi" is pronounced MOH-dus-uh-puh-uh-RAN-dy and means manner or mode of working. It is often used in the sense of "procedure" in such a sentence as "The director set up a modus operandi to be followed by all employees in fulfilling the contract."

By the way, two "ts" on Bennett in the future, dear reader. Mr. Cerf is understandably particular about the spelling of his first name.

Will Rogers was in the middle of his act one night at the Ziegfeld Follies when a cat strolled unconcernedly across the stage. The audience began to titter, but Rogers quickly regained their full attention by drawing, "Go way, kitty. This is supposed to be a monologue—not a catalogue!"

A group of very pious—and very frugal—gentlemen recently attended a conclave in a Chicago hotel. When they decamped, a waiter sadly told his wife, "Dem gentlemen arrived wid ten dollars in one hand and ten commandments in deudder—and neither wuz broken when dey left!"

In a hotel that prides itself on superservice to its guests, the room clerk received a frantic call from the gent in 1142. "The chambermaid," he shouted, "has just died of heart failure. What will I do?" "Do?" said the room clerk suavely. "Calm yourself, sir. We'll have another one up in five minutes."

Long-Continued Cough Can Cause Serious Complications

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Any severe long-lasting cough, no matter what the cause, may result in a serious condition of the lungs known as bronchiectasis. An irritation of the breathing tubes such as a bronchitis, a severe asthma, or even a chronic sinus infection associated with coughing may bring about this condition.

In bronchiectasis the small pockets in the lungs known as alveoli (which are normally filled with air when a person breathes) are broken down, dilated and packed with mucus, fluid, or pus. If you could see the involved areas of the lungs they would look much like a bunch of grapes.

COUGHING BY A person with bronchiectasis usually brings up a heavy mucus sputum, often having a foul odor. Accurate diagnosis, however, depends on special examinations, including an X-ray film. A remarkable instrument called a bronchoscope, by which the dilated pockets can be seen by the physician, may also be used.

Once bronchiectasis has developed the first step in treatment is to find out if the condition which produced the bronchiectasis is still active. If it is, appropriate treatment must be directed at the active cause.

UNTIL RECENTLY treatment of bronchiectasis was unsatisfactory. Now, however, many good results have been reported from the use of penicillin given by injection or inhalation.

The other method of treatment which is satisfactory for many of those with bronchiectasis, especially when the condition is advanced, is surgery. The part of the lung affected with bronchiectasis can be removed by surgery pretty successfully and this has undoubtedly saved many lives.

For those who are unfortunate enough to have developed an advanced type of bronchiectasis, surgery still offers good hope of restoring health and preventing untimely death.

A PERSON WHO has a long continued cough, regardless of what is producing it, ought to try to get at the bottom of the trouble and stop the difficulty before bronchiectasis has had a chance to become established.

Bronchiectasis interferes with health and the ability to work, and in its most serious form can even cause death. It is therefore extremely desirable to prevent it if at all possible.

Today And Tomorrow

WASHINGTON—Hiss has paid his penalty under the law. Anybody else in the same circumstances is entitled to be accorded by his fellow men a chance to rehabilitate himself. To pursue Alger Hiss to tell what he knows about Communist activities in the government may be a logical objective of some congressional committee in the future, but it would be wiser to leave a decision on further revelations—if, indeed, Alger Hiss can contribute any—to him alone.

As matters stand today, the statute of limitations has run on any crime committed before or in the five years after World War II, and there can be no prosecution of anybody in that connection. But any evidence of wartime acts in violation of espionage laws can be prosecuted. So far as anybody here knows, there is no evidence concerning any wartime violation of law by Alger Hiss. This means there is no plan by the Department of Justice to try to make any further case against him.

Thus, the future of Alger Hiss is in his own hands. But what will the public think about him? Will he be accepted by his former friends? Rarely in American history has there been a case of one so prominent in government and in the collegiate world who, after serving a sentence for perjury, comes back to an atmosphere still surcharged with memories of his two trials and the sensational charges that surrounded them.

SOCIETY'S ATTITUDE

What attitude shall society take toward Alger Hiss? Somewhat the same problem was posed shortly after Hiss was convicted, when there was widespread criticism of Dean Acheson, then secretary of state, who said he refused to turn his back on his friend. This correspondent wrote at that time—February 1950—as follows:

"When the jury rendered its verdict of guilty, Mr. Acheson didn't attempt to dodge the inevitable recurrence of the same question when put to him by the reporters. He didn't say, however, as had been misrepresented since, that he believed Hiss innocent. He expressed no view on that phase of it but simply pointed out, in effect, that, irrespective of whether Hiss went to jail or not, he would continue to give him his friend.

"This is a far cry from condoning treason or any other crime. It assumed merely that Hiss, by the verdict if nothing else, had already received more punishment before his countrymen than a jail sentence could inflict. It assumed, too, that the rehabilitation of a man gone wrong is an obligation imposed on society as a whole, now recognized as an enlightened attitude in penology. It assumed also that the Christian spirit is not something to which men pay lip service on Sundays, but which they sometimes forget on weekdays because it might bring down upon them cynical charges of mawkishness or softness."

WILL FRIENDS AID HIM?

Will the people who knew Hiss turn their backs on him now, or will they assist him in rehabilitation?

Much will depend on the attitude of the man himself. For he never has publicly conceded that the jury was right in convicting him of perjury. In the eyes of many people, therefore, he has not atoned for his sin, though he has paid the penalty of the law. So far as the jury's judgment is concerned, it was based to no small extent on the flat statement by Hiss that he never was a Communist. Since his trial, at which witnesses testified that he perjured himself on this point, another witness—Nathaniel Weyl—who broke with the Communists, has stated under oath that he personally saw Hiss paying Communists dues several times.

There have been many ex-Communists who have been received into respected circles of American life but primarily because they "turned state's evidence," so to speak, and aided their own government by furnishing all the information they had about the Communist infiltration movement in which they had participated.

Alger Hiss should be left to make his voluntary atonement for his crime, but, if he chooses to remain silent altogether, he will not soon regain, even among his friends, some of the esteem he once had. For he is still the center of an unexplained mystery. He was prominent in the councils of the Department of State at a critical time. He was present at the Yalta conference as a trusted adviser of Edward Stettinius, who was then secretary of state.

Whatever the scope of his wrongdoing and however narrow it may be, the future of Alger Hiss depends now on how much of the cloud that has enveloped his reputation he himself will remove. Public opinion is not charitably inclined toward anyone who does not voluntarily tell the facts about a crime committed by others of which he has firsthand knowledge. For today undisclosed information about the past relations between Soviet Russia and the American government is still of vital interest to the security of the United States.

This is one good break John Q. Citizen gets from the confusing election. If there are two gents in town who can sit down together, forget old conflicts and harsh campaign oratory and work together to statesmenlike goals they're Mr. Eisenhower and Speaker Rayburn.

It's quality of bigness in Rayburn which has kept him as House speaker longer than any man in history. Sam's dad, William Rayburn, a "Hard Shell" Baptist, once told his son, "character is all I have to give you, be a man." Sam's record in Washington as a representative since 1912 proves that he has this heritage.

In spite of his age, 72, and having been married for a year in his youth, he still makes every "most eligible bachelor" list.

"Are you single because no woman will have you?" a friend asked him recently.

"Nope," he replied, "one with courage enough to ask me hasn't come along."

A friend says Rayburn has the best digestive system in town:

"Every year on his birthday, Sam is given a party by Mrs. J. Lee Aston, widow of an old Texas pal of his, and every year Sam demands the same menu—turkey, sauerkraut, coconuts cake and ginger beer."

Sam was born in Kingston, Tenn., and at the age of five his parents took him to Fannin

Rayburn Finds Himself With Eisenhower Crowd; Can't Say No

MR. SAM STEPS into the administration's picture as new House Speaker. Rayburn, center, replaces Joe Martin, left, as the man with whom President Eisenhower will have to deal heavily for the next two years.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—During the recent campaign, Rep. Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) charged:

"The crowd around Eisenhower can't take hold because they are uncertain, unsure and unknowing."

It apparently didn't dawn on Sam that a first result of the election would add him to the "crowd around Eisenhower."

At his press conference the day after the election, the President announced he planned to confer regularly with the speaker of the Republican-controlled House, Rayburn, on at least every important legislative matter and on all sorts of other problems.

Aside from pure politics, Rayburn is reported to have expressed serious personal irritation with Ike only once. He privately accused Ike of sanctioning statements which called the Democrats the "party of treason."

"I can stand charges of crime and corruption," he said, "but charges implying treason are unforgivable. And my back is getting tired."

It's already predicted that his unique position as House Speaker and White House conferee will make Rayburn for the next two years at least one of the most sought-after men in town and second in importance only to the President.

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Whether Republicans or Democrats will organize the U. S. Senate when the 84th Congress convenes next Jan. 3 is a question that still hangs on a heartbeat.

It is not just a question of recounts in close states like New Jersey and Ohio, where Republicans Clifford Case and George Bender appear to have won the election. Reversals in those two states would increase the apparent Democratic lead of 48 to 47 Republicans, with Oregon Independent Wayne Morse committed to vote with the Democrats on organization of the new Senate. But that is not where the rub comes.

What really controls the result is whether all of the incumbent senators and senators-elect are alive, healthy, present and voting on Jan. 3 when the session opens to organize.

This may be a ghoulish thing to talk about. But it is a fact of political life which cannot be ignored.

SEVEN SENATORS DIED DURING NO

last session of Congress.

With a number of senators now well past the traditional three score and ten, the fact that some of them or even younger men might not live through the session has been openly discussed by even the senators themselves.

Speculation at first centered on young Sen. John F. Kennedy (D., Mass.) now hospitalized for surgery on war injuries. Reports became so prevalent that he had cancer of the blood and could not resume his Senate seat that his father, former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy, had to make a public statement to squelch the rumors.

Once the Senate is organized, there is little likelihood that control would be changed in midseason, regardless of who might die or which party would retain a majority.

THERE IS NO RECORD in U. S. congressional history in which such a shift has been made. The most recent example of such a situation arose when Sen. Robert A. Taft died in 1953. He was succeeded by Democrat Thomas A. Burke. The Democratic Party then had a nominal majority of one. But no move was made by the Democrats to reorganize the Senate.

If this precedent is followed in the 84th Congress, the Republicans would make no move to change control if they should obtain a majority through the death of any Democrat and his replacement by

Pope Put on Diet, Confined To Bed

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII has been confined to his bed and placed on a strict diet. This precaution was taken in the hope of quickly restoring the strength of the fatigued and ailing 78-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church.

While Vatican sources emphasized there was no cause for alarm, the attitude of the Vatican secretary of state's office was described as "neither too pessimistic nor too optimistic."

The Pontiff is again suffering from hiccups, an ailment that last January and February dangerously sapped his strength. A source close to him said he is having difficulty taking food by mouth. It was this trouble earlier this year that greatly weakened the Pontiff and made it necessary to give him indirect sustenance.

Formosa To Get American Jets

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—The United States, reported preparing to sign a treaty pledging U. S. defense of Formosa, Monday delivered the first shipment of Sabrejet fighters for Chiang Kai-shek's air force.

An official American source said only four jets were delivered but that more are due shortly.

"The total number to be delivered will naturally be kept secret but it will be sizeable," he said.

Chiang says he needs at least 150 sabrejets to assure Formosa of reasonable protection should the Chinese Reds launch air attacks—as Chiang predicts they will.

In the mounting military activities between the Nationalists and the Reds, the only action reported today was a sporadic exchange of gunfire between the Nationalists on Quemoy and the Reds on Amoy.

House Damaged But Firemen's Pies Saved

DALLAS (AP)—Fireman C. W. Brock, who doubles as cook at Station 36, left in a hurry after an alarm Sunday.

En route he remembered three coconut pies in the oven, baking for supper.

He advised the fire dispatcher, who called the police dispatcher, who flashed word to a patrol car cruising in the area to "turn out the fire in the oven at Fire Station 36."

The house was heavily damaged. Police saved the pies.

Soviets Toast Health Of Tito

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union's top command swapped toasts to peace and East-West friendship Sunday night with the once-blacklisted Yugoslav and Western newspaper correspondents.

The occasion was a Yugoslav Embassy reception honoring the former Cominform member's national day. High spot of the occasion was a toast to President Tito's health, proposed by Soviet Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev and joined in by Premier Georgi Malenkov and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

Other events of the evening included the introduction to Malenkov and Khrushchev of Roman Catholic Father George L. Bissonette, of Central Falls, R. I., who ministers to foreigners of his faith here; newsmen's conversations with Malenkov and other Soviet leaders; and a laughing denial by war hero Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov of recent speculation in some Western papers that he was missing.

The top Kremlin leadership's attendance at the reception marked another step in the Soviet campaign to heal the breach with Tito, who split with the Cominform in 1948. Last year only Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko went to the party.

Ask Dimout Of Holiday Light

Limited holiday lighting can be allowed during the coming Christmas season, but there will still be need for residents to eliminate outdoor lighting displays at their homes.

The announcement of Christmas lighting policy was made today following a conference of those interested in the conservation of electric power at the peak lighting season of the year. Attending the meeting were officials of the Escanaba Paper Company, Upper Michigan Power & Light Company, of the city and the Chamber of Commerce.

Annual peak in electric consumption occurs during the month of December, and particularly at the Christmas season.

With the present water supply in the Escanaba River larger than last year, a limited lighting program can be allowed in Escanaba during the holidays, it was announced.

However, during the daily peak load period—4 p. m. to 7 p. m.—when transformers are approaching their capacity, it is requested that non-essential lighting be turned off. This will mean that the Christmas lighting display on downtown streets will not be turned on before 7 p. m.

The city requests the cooperation of its residents in eliminating outdoor lighting displays at homes.

Latin American Amity Bolstered

QUITANDINHA, Brazil (AP)—The Inter-American Economic Conference moved into its final cleanup phase today. Delegates hailed the meeting as marking a new era in relations between the United States and the 20 nations of Latin America.

This new relationship was labeled the "good partner" policy by President Eisenhower in a message to the conference. Carlos Davila, secretary general of the Organization of American States, said the gathering had been of "transcendental" importance.

The big questions of the conference had been threshed out for presentation to a plenary session this afternoon. They included:

1. Latin America will go ahead with plans to study the possibility of creating an inter-American bank to help finance the area's development. The bank's capital will be furnished by Latin America. The United States, which opposed the idea as unnecessary, will furnish indirect technical aid.

The original bank proposal, presented by Chile, called for the establishment of an institution with a capital of 1 1/2 billion dollars.

2. A special coffee committee of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council will make a detailed study of the world coffee situation. If the committee findings show a need for "international cooperation," it could prepare plans for an international coffee agreement along the lines of the present world wheat and sugar agreements.

Chrysler Body Strike Averted

DETROIT (AP)—A Chrysler strike was averted today, making certain a full-scale automobile market battle among the industry's "Big Three."

Negotiators for Chrysler and the CIO United Auto Workers reached an agreement in the dawn hours after 19 hours of marathon sessions.

The settlement preserved Chrysler's place in the 1955 car market race. A strike could have shut down all Chrysler's operations, idling 150,000 men and leaving the big competitive battle to Ford and General Motors alone.

The Chrysler settlement came only 50 minutes before the 7 a. m. (EST) strike deadline.

At issue were contract terms for 850 office workers at Chrysler's Key Automotive Body Division.

The agreement said salaried office workers at the automotive division will be covered by the same terms as salaried engineers at the Briggs Manufacturing Co., purchased by Chrysler earlier this year.

The strike threat had erupted over UAW demands on Chrysler to agree to a contract covering the 850 office workers who voted last August to have the UAW represent them.

"There are some—I hate to use the figure—42 Communists. I think the number is, who are working in defense plants..." he said. "But once they are called before our subcommittee, and if they plead the Fifth Amendment, I feel confident they will be removed from any classified work."

McCarthy told his colleagues the censure charges "boil down simply to the accusation that I have used discourteous and offensive words..."

"I admit that at times I have been extremely blunt in expressing my opinions," he said. "This being true, I say to those who feel they have been offended, that I had no intention in the words that were used of hurting the feelings of anyone—but in the facts and opinions that I held, I am unchanged."

He said he was not apologizing and his statement was "not to be taken as any compromise on my part with the principles I have held and which I still hold."

He noted the existence of "a vast Russian military establishment" and said that safety from attack lies in the maintenance of an effective defense coupled with "retributive power."

Ready To Fight

"We believe," he said, "that the greatest contribution we can make to peace is to be ready to fight, if need be, and to have the resources and the allies to assure that an aggressor would surely be defeated."

Ben Helm glanced into the kitch- enette and then examined the living room some more. Though he was hovering on either side of 40, he was youthfully slender. His hair was thinning in a kind of receding widow's peak, adding to a normally high brow. His nose was slightly hooked, and the nostrils were pinched. His mouth was thin but smiled easily.

"What was the caliber of the bullet you dug out of the wall?" he asked.

He was looking at the hole over my bed, the hole the police had enlarged Friday night and which I hadn't got around to plastering up again.

I said: "That's not subtle."

"Neither is that hole." He sat down, choosing one of the wooden chairs instead of the more comfortable armchair. "I'm not investigating murder. All I'm looking for are the records."

"You mean the ones in the briefcase?"

"Uh-huh."

"Well, that's something," I said. "You're the first one to mention even vaguely what's in it. I had an idea they had to be papers of some kind. What are they, documents stolen from Lar- kin's office?"

He studied me. "Who's trying to be subtle now?"

"I'm not. I'm fed up with de- nying that I haven't got the briefcase and never saw it and don't know where it is."

Helm took a long narrow lighter from his pocket and snapped it on and applied the flame to the bowl of his pipe. He frowned. "My wife sent me this from California. She claims I smoke more matches than to- bacco, and this lighter is sup- posed to direct the flame down- ward. It works sometimes when the bowl is full, but after you've smoked it down a bit . . ."

I tossed him a book of matches.

He caught it and said, "Thanks," and lit his pipe. Then he said: "You're not holding out for black- mail. A blackmailer is about the lowest form of animal life, and from all I've picked up about you you don't fit in. And if you were out for money, Willie Shad offered you $7000. That's a good price. If you considered the records worth more, you would have said so to the parties concerned. What else is there?"

"That I haven't got it."

It could be that you're afraid the possession of the records will be proof of murder. Maudson didn't say so, but I can't imagine him not offering to make a deal with you — the records for immunity. Did he?"

"Yes."

"But it might be that murder is too much even for him to fix," Helm said. "But what have you got to lose by taking the chance? The briefcase does you no good and it's dangerous to hang onto. I've acted as intermediary in this kind of thing. You leave the briefcase somewhere, and an hour later I pick it up. There'll be no way of proving you'd left it. If you prefer, there'll be money waiting for you when you leave the briefcase."

"I thought I'm not the black- mail type."

"I'm trying this for size. Let's say that instead of money Maudson gives his word to continue to defend you as your lawyer."

"That's another form of black- mail," I said.

He looked around the room. "Small and crowded," he ob- served. "Larkin couldn't have stood more than a few feet from who ever shot him. You were an army officer and learned how to shoot. I doubt if you would have completely missed the first time you shot at him."

"So I didn't shoot him and he wasn't shot here," I said.

"On the other hand," he went on, "the bullet that did the job got him between the eyes. One couldn't be more accurate." He snapped the lighter. "Larkin in owned a gun. A .32 automatic. It can't be found in his home or in his office."

The lighter flickered over the pipe bowl. He scowled at it and doused it and picked up the matchbook, and as I watched him I tried to recall the size of the battered slug in the wall. I re- membered telling Martha when I'd got it out that it seemed fairly small.

"You said you weren't interested in the murder."

"I am to the extent that it will get me closer to the records." He pointed his pipe at me. "You see what I'm getting at. If shots were fired by two different guns, self-defense can be established."

"That offer has been made," I said. "I see no reason to buy it."

"There's another angle," he said. "That both shots came out of the same gun. I mentioned it would be hard for you to miss a man completely in these close quarters, but not for a woman unused to a revolver. The one between the eyes could have been an accident; the wildest shooting sometimes hits the right spot. Now what if Mrs. Larkin shot him? Still self - defense. After all, he followed her here, and I'm told he was in a rage when

Wesley Dalton Opens Concert Season Here

Wesley Dalton, noted young tenor, returned to his native state last night to give a near capacity audience at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium an evening of enchanting music.

His program last evening included two arias, one from "Don Giovanni," Mozart, and the other, the familiar Mi-Appari from von Flotow's "Martha" in which he was particularly effective. He was equally at home in his interpretations of Grieg, Schubert, Massenet and Debussy and in the haunting Negro spiritual, "Honor, Honor," which was included in his final group.

Adding in no small measure to the enjoyment of the concert were the accompaniment and the piano solos of Jerome Winter. His playing was a close to perfect complement of the voice and his artistry was given full play in the flowing Debussy Arabesque and the Brahms Rhapsody which he chose for his solos.

Wesley Dalton Opens Concert Season Here

Wesley Dalton, noted young tenor, returned to his native state last night to give a near capacity audience at William W. Oliver Memorial Auditorium an evening of enchanting music.

His program last evening included two arias, one from "Don Giovanni," Mozart, and the other, the familiar Mi-Appari from von Flotow's "Martha" in which he was particularly effective. He was equally at home in his interpretations of Grieg, Schubert, Massenet and Debussy and in the haunting Negro spiritual, "Honor, Honor," which was included in his final group.

Adding in no small measure to the enjoyment of the concert were the accompaniment and the piano solos of Jerome Winter. His playing was a close to perfect complement of the voice and his artistry was given full play in the flowing Debussy Arabesque and the Brahms Rhapsody which he chose for his solos.

Red Ship Seizure Denied By U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States again Monday denied Soviet charges that American planes and ships had a hand in seizing the Russian tanker Tuapse last summer off China.

A brief note delivered by a U. S. Embassy messenger answered a Russian note of last Aug. 4. The U. S. reply stated that "careful investigation has shown that no American military aircraft operating over the high seas of the Pacific in this area engaged in any hostile acts toward Soviet commercial vessels."

It added: "The United States denies any violation of international law as alleged by the Soviet note."

Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalists on Formosa have admitted they are holding the Tuapse. They captured the 8,840-ton ship last June 23 in the Luzon Strait, between Formosa and the Philippines. It was carrying petroleum to the China mainland.

The Japanese use Chinese writing for their own language although the Chinese symbols are not well adapted to express the language.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

SLAM TRIES HAVE "DEGREES"

In many bridge games it does not matter a great deal whether a player makes a strong or a weak slam—try—the mere fact that he indicates interest is usually enough for his partner to accept the invitation (unless said partner already has overbid tremendously).

In expert games, however, the precise degree of the slam suggestion is the essence of the situation, and a bid is either a shade too encouraging or discouraging as is apt to have a fatal effect. Consider this case from a prominent New York bridge club:

North dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.
North-South 40 on score.

♦ A 5 3	♦ J 10
♦ A 9 8 4 2	♦ A 9 8 4 2
♦ A Q 6	♦ A Q 6
♦ J 8	♦ Q 10 9 4
♦ 9 6 4	♦ 8 7 5 2
♦ K 10 7	♦ Q 6 3
♦ 9 8 7 4 3	♦ 5 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	2 N T	Pass
3 N T	Pass	6 N T	Pass
Pass	Pass

The play was of no consequence—South had no chance for the contract.

Analysis of each individual bid does not bring to light any glaring flaw, but when an unsound contract is reached, there is a defect somewhere, though it may be difficult to discover. North-South's part-score, of course, had something to do with the bad outcome. South's jump to two notrump at this score was a far stronger bid, in its implications to partner, than the same bid would be at a love score. The reason for this is obvious: At a 40 score, game is sure to be reached without strong responding; therefore, at the part-score the jump in notrump implies that there are substantial values in reserve.

Thus, North's action in going past game to three notrump was only a proper chance-giving maneuver. (After all, North not only had three aces for slam material, but his hand was well over minimum.) Apparently, however, South read this three-notrump call as a strong slam try. If he had applied sounder reasoning, he then would have bid no more than four notrump—and North undoubtedly would have passed.

Finnish Lapland, covering 38,000 square miles and warmed by the Norwegian Current of the Gulf Stream, is Finland's fastest growing area, says the National Geographic Society. There are about 34,000 Lapps today, more than ever before, spread across the boundaries of four countries—Norway, Sweden, Finland and Russia. The Lapp population trend is expected to continue upward.

Ohio State Is Named No. 1 Football Team In Country

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—This usually frenzied football town, worn to a frazzle by Ohio State's unexpected and swashbuckling gridiron deeds, just took it in quiet stride today as the Bucks won the national collegiate championship.

"Aw, we knew it all the time," was the general attitude as news spread Ohio State had climbed on the throne in the final Associated Press poll with 3,670 points to UCLA's 3,594.

Win or lose, the Bucks are always champions to the year-round routers, but as the 408 sports writers made it official for Coach Woody Hayes' unbeaten squad the satisfaction was tinged with a bit of discontent.

Should Play UCLA

"We should be playing UCLA in the Rose Bowl instead of Southern California. That would stop all arguments," was the oft-heard comment at Broad and High streets—the mecca which attracts the faithful for discussion of football doings.

Athletic director Dick Larkins was on the Coast making Rose Bowl arrangements, and Hayes was in upstate Fremont for a high school banquet when the championship flash came.

Larkins, always unruffled and soft-spoken, observed:

"I am delighted that we are the No. 1 team."

Hayes, who has had three so-so seasons with the Bucks before this year, declared:

"That's sure swell. Frankly, I think we deserve it because of the schedule we played and the way we stayed 'up' for nine games. This is the right time to win it, too. Remember, after the Wisconsin game, when they voted us first I said 'Too bad!' Well, I was afraid everyone would be shooting at us the rest of the way."

Top Civilian Team

Back in war-time 1944, the last time the Bucks enjoyed a 9-0 season, Ohio State was voted the No. 1 civilian team in the land, with Army the overall choice. In 1942, the second year of Paul Brown's reign here, the Bucks took the national title with a 9-1 record after losing to Wisconsin.

Hayes was especially proud that his Bucks hit the heights after being picked in the pre-season poll to finish 20th—not a poor pick considering the fact Ohio had lost three games in each of the last three campaigns.

Asked how his boys rolled over Indiana, California, Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Pittsburgh, Northwestern, Purdue and Michigan in a row, Hayes said:

"I don't think it was depth, for other teams out-deepth us. I don't think it was conditioning. I think our kids just weren't going to let any team beat 'em—and they didn't."

Half Named Ohio

A banquet for formal presentation of the National Championship Emblem probably will be held, but Hayes said it would be delayed until after the trip to the coast for the Southern Cal clash. It will be the first thing Ohio has ever taken from Notre Dame in a football way, for the Irish beat the Bucks 18-13 in a memorable 1935 game and did it again 7 to 2 the following year—the only times the teams have ever met.

In delaying the banquet until after the Jan. 1 game, Hayes evidently wants to win the roses before accepting the orchids.

The leading teams with first-place votes in parentheses:

1. Ohio State (204)	3,670
2. UCLA (133)	3,594
3. Oklahoma (35)	3,115
4. Notre Dame (9)	2,641
5. Navy (4)	2,375
6. Mississippi (6)	1,556
7. Army	1,060
8. Maryland (4)	941
9. Wisconsin	925
10. Arkansas (4)	518
(SECOND 10):
11. Miami (Fla.) (7)	455
12. West Virginia (2)	252
13. Auburn (1)	233
14. Duke	160
15. Michigan	156
16. Virginia Tech	153
17. USC	127
18. Baylor	122
19. Rice	73

Baltimore To Trim Farm Club System

HOUSTON, Tex. (P)—The Baltimore Orioles have announced plans to trim their farm system from 12 to seven clubs next year.

Farm Secretary Jim McLaughlin, making the announcement Monday, said the move was a "natural step to weed out players who will never make the big league grade. It means merely that we have progressed a year."

Clubs to be dropped are Pine Bluff, Ark., of the Class C Cotton States League; Pocatello, Idaho, of the Class C Pioneer Loop, and three Class D clubs—Wytheville, Va., of the Appalachian League, Marion, N. C., of the Tarheel League and Ada, Okla., of the Sooner State Circuit.

Dee Fondy, Chicago Cubs' first baseman, is a real estate salesman during the off-season.

Navy Seeking Practice Site

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (P)—Two Naval Academy representatives flew to New Orleans today bent on finding a practice site close to the city for the Sugar Bowl-bound Middies and wheeling a deal out of bowl officials so some of the non-playing midshipmen can attend the game.

Capt. Elliott Loughlin, director of athletics, said late Monday he hoped a "substantial number" of the 3,600-member brigade of misshapen could attend the Jan. 1 classic.

He also announced training plans for Navy, which will tangle with Mississippi in the Sugar Bowl. The plans were worked out at a meeting of Coach Eddie Erdelatz, his assistants, Loughlin and other athletic officials, and given high-brow approval.

The Middies—who won seven and lost two—will begin drills Dec. 8 and workout daily, except Sunday, right up till Christmas leaves begin Dec. 18. The players will report to New Orleans Dec. 26 for last-minute drills.

Loughlin said the training site will be "somewhere in the greater New Orleans area."

Nashua Named Top 2-Year-Old

NEW YORK (AP) — Nashua, the colt Eddie Arcaro hopes to pilot to a Kentucky Derby victory next May, was named the champion 2-year-old colt of 1954 today by the board of selectors of the Thoroughbred Racing Assns.

The bay son of the sensational sire, Nasrullah, received 29 of the 39 ballots cast by the racing secretaries of the TRA tracks, who already had chosen Lawrence Troiano's King Commander champion steeplechase horse of the year.

Nashua is owned by the Belair Stud of William Woodward Jr., and he ended his juvenile campaign in October after defeating Mrs. Russell A. Firestone's Summer Tan by a head in the $112,000 Belmont Futurity. A few days later Nashua came down with a virus and fever and was sent to his owner's Maryland farm to rest up for next season.

Summer Tan, runnerup in the voting, was the leading 2-year-old money winner with a total of $236,420. Most of this — $151,995 — came Oct. 30 when Summer Tan won the $269,965 Garden State Stakes.

Nashua won the Belmont Juvenile and Saratoga's Hopeful Stakes from Summer Tan, also the Grand Union Hotel Stakes. In eight starts he won six races with two seconds, and earned $192,865.

In his two defeats Nashua finished behind Royal Note in the Cherry Hill Stakes at Garden State Park last May, and behind Summer Tan in Aqueduct's Cowdin Stakes in August.

Christmas Eggnog Has No Punch

AP Newsfeatures

Time was when Dad got out the punch bowl on Christmas morning, warned away the small fry and then went to work with milk and cream and eggs and nutmeg—to mix up a batch of cheer for the folks who would come calling later in the day.

Nowadays, in most cities, the milk man brings the eggnog. It is still left for Dad—or maybe Mother—to add (or avoid adding) the stimulants. Some families like it without the "spike."

A typical dairy eggnog recipe calls for 100 gallons of milk-cream blend, 50 pounds of beaten egg yolks and 60 pounds of sugar.

The mixture in these open vats is blended in 400 gallon vats. It is pasturized and several gallons of rum flavor and a little oil of nutmeg added. Then it's bottled.

Testers sample the batches to maintain the butterfat content and taste them to make sure the flavor is maintained.

Grocery Firm Head Drowns Self In River

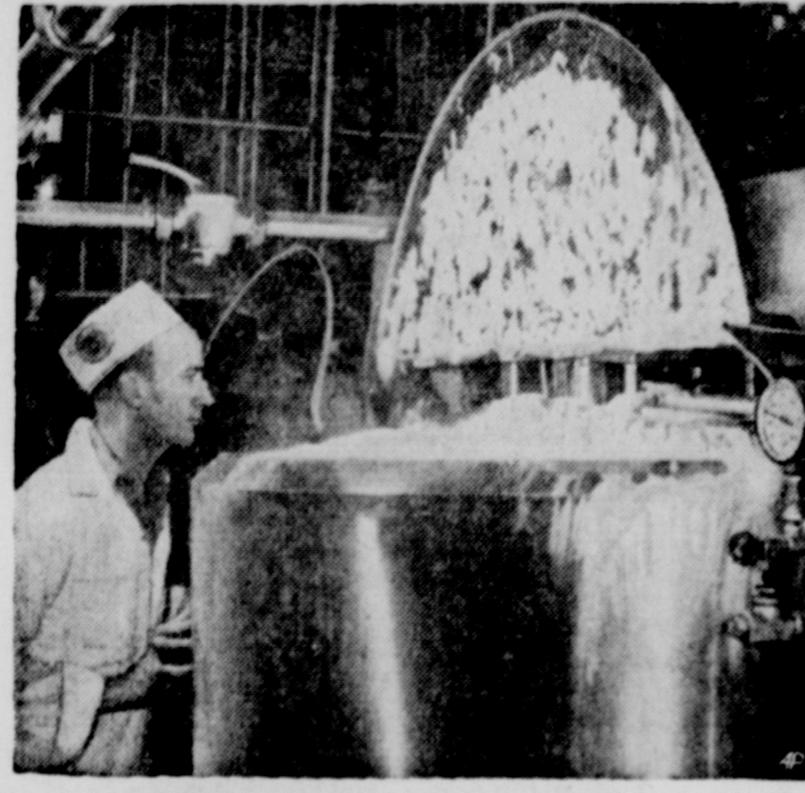

MILLIS, Mass., (AP)—Roger Preston, 54, president since 1947 of S.S. Pierce Co. of Boston, New England wide grocery and importing firm, was officially listed a suicide Monday.

The major, 6,500-word document on "the state of the church" was prepared by the council's general secretary, Dr. Roy G. Ross, and its associate general secretary, Dr. Roswell P. Barnes.

It generally set forth the new problems confronting Christianity in a modern era described as one of "unprecedented change" in the living habits of people.

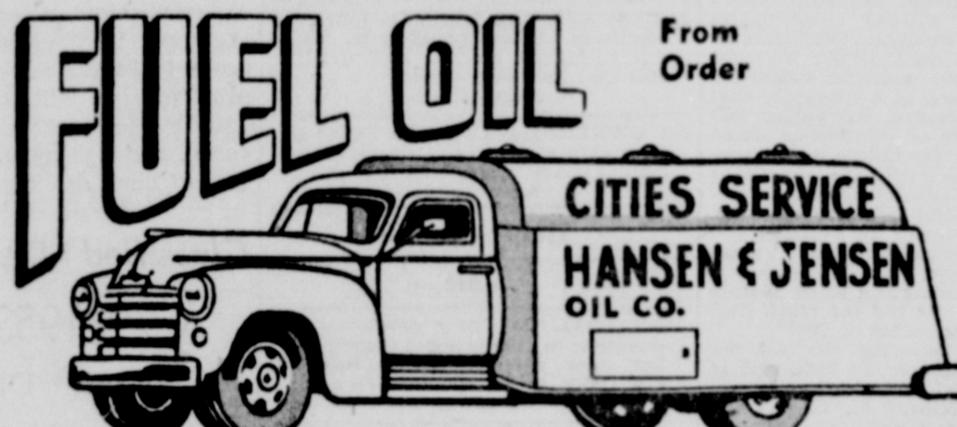

The report recited detailed statistics of booming church growth—record figures in membership, contributions, Sunday school attendance, construction and broad new programs of church activity.

HURT IN ABSENCE
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Mrs. George C. Rankin was sound asleep in her apartment when an automobile crashed into her car parked on the street outside. Awakened by the crash she climbed on a chair to look out of a high window, slipped and broke her leg.

After 10-Year Wait

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP)—Little Andy Prazik was well into a new chapter of his 11-year-old life

Monday, far from his native Poland, where he parted from his mother 10 years ago.

The handsome youngster, who can't speak a word of English, hopped from an American airliner at Spokane Sunday into the arms of his mother.

Andy and his mother were separated in Warsaw in 1944. Andy went to live with his grandmother when his mother was taken to a Nazi concentration camp in Germany.

His father was killed in street fighting then rocking Warsaw.

After the war, Andy's mother made her way to America, met and married an American, Matthew Garcia, now an engineering student at Washington State College.

Five years ago she applied for her son's release, but it was only several weeks ago that Andy's visa was granted and he was permitted to leave the country.
